VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL

GEN. TYNER AND MR. BARRETT DECLARED NOT GUILTY.

The Jury Deliberates but Little More Than Twenty Minutes-Both Defendants Present.

Within twenty-two minutes of the time the jury retired in the case of James N. Tyner and Harrison J. Barrett, tried on charges of conspiracy in connection with their duties as law officers of the Post Office Department, a verdict of not guilty was rendered shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The throng which filled the court room of Criminal Court No. 1 throughout the summing-up arguments of counsel hardly had time to leave the building before the jury was back and the foreman announced that a verdict had been reached. General Tyner had been wheeled from the room, but his co-defendant hastened to give an order which caused his re-

General Tyner appeared to be somewhat General Typer appeared to be somewhat agitated as he attempted to face the jury. When the verdict was uttered he gave way to tears. The jurors shock hands with him, with Mr. Barrett and the members of their

The Tyner-Barrett case was begun May 2 and was before the court nineteen days. A great mass of testimony was offered. The prosecution brought forward an army of witnesses, a majority of whom were former officers of bond investment companies, through which H. J. Barrett, the junior defendant, was alleged to have profited after he left the Post Office Department by practicing before Gen. Tyner, who remained in Justice Pritchard concluded his charge at Justice Pritchard concluded his charge at 8:30 o'clock and at 3:52 o'clock the result was known. To those who had followed the proceedings closely neither the purport of the verdict nor its prompt rendition was a surprise. It is understood that the first vote of the jurors would have been unanimously for acquittal but for uncertainty felt by one member of the body. He was quickly won over, however, by his colleagues.

Expresses Thanks to Jurors.

When the important words were spoken by the foreman of the jury General Tyner's wife, his physician and Mr. Barrett werc near him. It was feared that by reason of strain he has been under he might have broken down completely. Although the tears rolled down General Tyner's cheeks he was able to respond to the congratula-tions of his relatives, friends and attorneys, and to request that his chair be rolled to and to request that his chair be rolled to the jury box. The aged defendant thanked each juror personally, as did Mr. Barrett, Mrs. Tyner, Mrs. Barrett and Mr. Barrett's mother. Fully half an hour was consumed by these felicitations. Then General Tyner was taken to his carriage and the other members of the defendants' party proceed-ed to their hours.

ed to their homes.

There remains an indictment pending against Mr. Barrett for violation of section 1782 of the Revised Statutes relating to an employe of the government accepting com-pensation in a matter in which the United States is interested. Although the prose-cuting officers say that Barrett will be called upon to answer this charge, the decalled upon to answer this charge, the de-fense insists that the accusation will not stand, because it was practically disposed of by the verdict rendered yesterday. No further charges are pending against General

LOSES LIFE IN RIVER.

Yesterday Afternoon.

The third fatal river accident during the past week occurred yesterday afternoon about 8 o'clock, off Potomac Park, opposite the steamboat wharves. John P. S. Carmony, fifteen years old, whose home was at 1023 15th street northwest, was the victim. His body was recovered in a short time by the crew of the police boat and removed to the morgue. A brother of the deceased went to the morgue and made certain of the identification, and the remains were then removed to the undertaking establishment of J. W. Lee and prepared for burial.

The boy was employed in the coat room
at the Metropolitan Club, where Willis Washington, sixteen years old, was also employed. Yesterday the two boys went to the river front and hired a boat. They had enjoyed a row about the river and thought they would take a swim before returning to work at 4 o'clock. Carmony went into the water at a point where a large boat hid him from view of persons along the city side of the river front. When he falled to come to the surface his companion jumped overboard and did everything in his power to save him, but without avail. Life was extinct when the police recovered the

Launch Owners' Complaint.

Complaint is made by the owers of small launches and others of the anchoring of sand scows in the channel to Georgetown at its junction with the main channel of the river. A string of barges, numbering six or seven, tied end to end, are often moored in the channel overnight. No light is placed on them, and a change in the tide or wind will send them across the channel, as they are seldom anchored but at one end, and small vessels coming up the river after dark are often in great danger of running into them. Single barges are also moored in the channel and left without lights, and accidents are avoided often by a narrow margin. It is stated that some concerted action will be taken by the small boat owners to put a stop to the dangerous practice.

James H. Webster pleaded not gullty to the charge of vagrancy in Police Court this morning. The court was informed that Webster had been in the habit of loitering and sleeping about the monument grounds. The defendant displayed his hands as an evidence that he was a working man and appealed to the court to release him, but Judge Scott thought a stay on the farm would benefit him, and he imposed a fine
